Conceptual Framework:

University of Massachusetts Lowell, Graduate School of Education

A theme entitled “Education for Transformation” provides a conceptual framework that unifies programs at the Graduate School of Education. The mission of the University of Massachusetts Lowell is to meet the needs of the Commonwealth today and into the future by supporting the development of sustainable technologies and communities through its teaching, research, scholarship and engagement. The Graduate School of Education (GSE) contributes to this mission by educating new teachers and enhancing the professional development of those already in the field so that they may assume leadership roles focuses on transforming the lives of children and the vitality of the region.

The GSE’s commitment to “Education for Transformation” produces graduates who:

- Demonstrate excellent knowledge, judgment and skills in their professional fields.
- Promote equity of educational opportunity for all learners.
- Collaborate with other educators, parents and community representatives to support educational excellence.
- Use inquiry and research to address educational challenges.

Course Description:

The Diversity in Higher Education Course will provide students with an understanding of historical and current state of the representation of individuals, particularly students and faculty, from diverse backgrounds in institutions of higher education. This course will expose students to critical policy and cultural advances effecting access to higher education, the impact of diversity on higher education communities and benefits to the educational experience, and a deep exploration of the impact of access to and success in higher education on the future of individuals and groups.
Learning Objectives:
Upon meeting all course requirements, the student should:
• Develop an understanding of the history of diversity and the current state of access in American higher education
• Have a deeper understanding of the experiences of “Dominant and Non-Dominant” students, and the effect of diverse learning environments on the student outcomes
• Begin to develop an understanding of implications for higher education and generate ideas for addressing those implications

Required Texts:

Attendance:
Attendance in the course is mandatory. If you are unable to attend a class session you must contact me in advance. Excessive absence from scheduled course sessions may result in up to a 5 point reduction in your final grade.

Participation:
Each day, students are expected to:
- Come to class with their homework completed
- Contribute to all discussions and answer and ask questions where necessary
- Respect other classmates’ opinions and ideas, and the issues presented by guests

Mid-Term Paper I:
Students will complete a 10 page research paper concerning an aspect of Higher Education Access as it pertains to the non-dominate identities of students. Students will discuss and finalize their topics with the professor in class on February 11.

Mid-Term Presentation:
Students will facilitate a 10 minute presentation during class on the topic of the Mid-Term Paper. The presentation should include multi-media, guided interactive discussion, and an opportunity for questions and answers. The purpose of the presentation is to enhance and deepen your classmates understanding of your topic. Students must also provide the rest of the class with their multi-media presentation as well as a 1 page executive summary.

Mid-Term Paper II:
Students will complete a 10 page research paper concerning the impact of diversity in the campus community, student, faculty and staff, on the student experience and success. Student groups will discuss and finalize their topics with the professor in class on March 4.

Final Group Project:
Student groups will complete a 15 page research paper concerning a major topic in the area of diversity in higher education. This paper should include a statement of the problem, a review of the pertinent literature demonstrating the existence and magnitude of the problem, and proposed solution(s) to the problem supported by theory and evidence in research and literature.

Final Presentation:
Students groups will facilitate a 45 minute presentation during class on the topic of the Final Project. The presentation should include multi-media, guided interactive discussion, and an opportunity for questions and answers. The purpose of the presentation is to enhance and deepen your classmates understanding of your topic. In addition to the presentation, students must provide the rest of the class with their multi-media presentation as well as a 1 page executive summary.
