

50 meter Wind Turbine Testing

Dynamic response of large wind turbine blades is important for performance issues. Testing and modeling applications involve modal testing and system models to determine frequencies and mode shapes for fatigue testing and model correlation.