UNOFFICIAL LISTING OF DEGREE RECIPIENTS

This listing of student degree recipients is unofficial. Final awarding of degrees is contingent upon students completing all degree requirements as verified by the academic dean.

Undergraduate students completing degree requirements during the 2015-2016 academic year who appeared in previous commencement programs are not listed again. University honors listed in this program reflect cumulative averages for the semester in which they were last computed. Since final undergraduate averages often differ from the last reported averages, official university honors may be different from those listed. Gold decals signifying official university honors will be placed on diplomas or mailed to graduates.

Message from the Chancellor

Dear Graduates:

Today we celebrate your hard work and dedication. You have studied and sacrificed to reach this moment. You have earned your degree. On behalf of the entire university community, I congratulate you on your accomplishments.

As we celebrate this important milestone together with your family and loved ones, the University of Massachusetts Lowell faculty, staff and administration wish you continued success. You have inspired us.

As our newest alumni, you join a unique community united in River Hawk spirit and bound by the shared experiences of a UMass Lowell education. I hope you will stay engaged with the university and continue to be part of its success.

A college diploma is an important achievement, but it’s not an end point. It heralds a new beginning. I look forward to hearing about the great achievements of the Class of 2016 in the years ahead.

With all good wishes,

Jacqueline F. Moloney ’75, ’92
Chancellor
History of the University

The earliest predecessor institutions of the University of Massachusetts Lowell — Lowell Normal School and Lowell Textile School — were established in the late 19th century to provide instruction in the theories and practical arts of teaching and the textile industry.

Lowell Normal School was chartered by the General Court of the Commonwealth on Jan. 6, 1894 as a teacher-training institution. The school provided “the most thorough knowledge of the branches of learning to be taught in the schools the best methods of teaching these branches and right mental training.” In 1932 it was made a four-year college and was granted the right to confer baccalaureate degrees.

The school became Lowell State College in 1960 and introduced non-teaching programs in the liberal arts. During the next decade and a half, the college continuously expanded its mission and curriculum offerings at both the graduate and undergraduate levels and was authorized to offer degree programs in education, the health professions, music, the liberal arts and sciences.

From the time of its origin in 1895, the Lowell Textile School provided educational programs of an applied and practical nature. “Science and art will be taught,” the enabling statute for the school announced, “for the purpose of improving any special trade or of introducing new branches of industry.” Control of the school was transferred to the state in 1918. Ten years later it was granted collegiate status and in 1953 it was made the multipurpose Lowell Technological Institute.

In the 1960s the institute phased out its textile program, extended its degree authority to the doctoral level and expanded its curriculum offerings in engineering and technology, pure and applied sciences, business administration and industrial management.

The merger of Lowell State College and Lowell Technological Institute in 1975 created the University of Lowell. The move brought together two institutions of differing character and orientation, creating a comprehensive university whose strengths and resources were greater than those of the previous schools.

From its earliest days, the university has aggressively sought to become a major intellectual center and an indispensable economic force in the Commonwealth. To this end the University of Lowell created doctoral programs in work environment, engineering, education and computer science and established campus centers for productivity enhancement, educational field studies and health promotion.

In 1991, the University of Lowell became one of five components of the University of Massachusetts. For 25 years, the University of Massachusetts Lowell has offered a wide array of liberal arts, science and professional programs.

New research centers and collaborations in nanomanufacturing, robotics, printed electronics, and terrorism and security studies, among others, provide transformative experiences for students and innovative research to the world.

The university currently offers 121 bachelor’s, 48 master's and 34 doctoral degree programs in six colleges. Over 1,100 faculty members teach 17,450 students. Today, more than 3,700 graduates will join a community of 87,000 living alumni.

COMMENCEMENT FACT: The Grand Marshal’s mace is a symbol of university authority. It bears the seal of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, from which authority the university derives its right to confer degrees.
COMMENCEMENT FACT: The nomenclature used by American universities to designate the three traditional levels of academic degrees (bachelor, master and doctor) originated during the Middle Ages.

CANDIDATES FOR COMMISSION
UNITED STATES AIR FORCE ROTC
The University of Massachusetts Lowell Air Force ROTC detachment holds a commissioning ceremony each year. In addition to their regular courses in aerospace studies, these cadets have completed intensive studies in management and leadership, international security policy and Air Force organization and history. The cadets are commissioned as second lieutenants in the Air Force and will enter active duty in diverse fields such as aviation navigation, engineering, missile operations, nursing, accounting, acquisition and administration.

Currently under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Brian J. Noe, the university’s Air Force ROTC detachment has received several awards for excellence in recruiting and preparing high-quality officer candidates.

Having completed their specific program requirements of Aerospace Studies, the following members of the Class of 2016 will be commissioned in a subsequent ceremony:

College of Health Sciences
Second Lieutenant Christopher Grassi,
Nursing Officer
Second Lieutenant Jonathan Pazienza,
Nursing Officer

College of Fine Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences
Second Lieutenant Patrick Mealey,
Air Battle Manager
Second Lieutenant Eric Johnson,
Combat Systems Officer

CANDIDATES FOR COMMISSION
UNITED STATES ARMY ROTC
The Army Reserve Officer Training Corps program is a diverse group of men and women with more than 20,000 cadets currently enrolled. ROTC produces approximately 70 percent of the second lieutenants who join the active Army, Army Reserve, and Army National Guard. More than 40 percent of current active duty army general officers were commissioned through ROTC.

The University of Massachusetts Lowell Army ROTC graduates will have completed both the basic and advance courses in basic military skills and fundamentals of leadership, advanced military tactics and decision making, as well as planning and team organization. The cadets are commissioned as second lieutenants in the United States Army and will enter either active duty, National Guard, or the Reserves in diverse careers such as: aviation, armor, infantry, engineer, signal, air defense artillery, field artillery, military police, finance, chaplain, medical services, chemical, military intelligence, ordinance and acquisition.

Currently under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Justin B. Putnam, the University of Massachusetts Lowell Army ROTC program will commission four second lieutenants from the Class of 2016 to the United States Army:

Kennedy College of Sciences
Second Lieutenant John Krauss,
Engineer Corps, Massachusetts National Guard

Students with HC next to their name in the list of candidates for degrees have met these requirements and are graduates of the Honors College at UMass Lowell.

BACCALAUREATE DEGREE HONORS

The university awards baccalaureate degrees with three levels of distinction to graduating students who have exhibited exceptional scholastic records. To be eligible for university honors, each student must achieve a minimum grade-point average of at least 3.25 for all courses completed at the university and must have earned a minimum of 60 credits at the school. Appropriate honors will be noted on diplomas following the determination of final baccalaureate averages.

University honors listed in this program reflect grade-point averages for the semester in which student averages were last reported. Since final baccalaureate averages often differ from the last reported averages, official university honors may differ from those listed on the following pages.

DEPARTMENT HONORS

In addition to university honors, departments may also award honors to their graduating students. Graduating students in Continuing Education can receive these honors from the college that has jurisdiction over their major. Faculty members in the student’s major or interdisciplinary committees may recommend their graduates for honors to recognize outstanding achievement in their field.

To qualify for such honors, graduates must complete a minimum of 24 credits in their major at the university and fulfill any honors requirements as specified by colleges, departments or interdisciplinary committees in their field. To receive honors, a student must have a 3.25 to 3.99 grade point average in all major courses taken at the university with no grade lower than a B. For high honors, students must have a 4.0 grade point average in all courses taken in their major at the university.
The University of Massachusetts Lowell Distinguished Alumni Award was established to acknowledge professional and public service contributions of university alumni. The Alumni Relations Council Board of Directors annually selects an individual who has made a significant contribution to a field of knowledge or who has provided exemplary service to the public.

L. DONALD “DON” LATORRE ’59, ’07 (H)

L. Donald LaTorre is the president of L&G Management Consultants, a firm he formed after retiring as president and COO of Engelhard Corporation in 1997. As president, LaTorre helps companies improve their leadership and performance.

He has a long history with companies such as Engelhard, Velcro USA, BASF Corporation and Diamond Shamrock Corporation. In his 13 years at Engelhard, LaTorre led the company through a period of unprecedented earnings growth.

A dedicated and involved alumnus, LaTorre currently serves on the Chancellor’s External Advisory Board, the Nanotechnology Advisory Board, the Kennedy College of Sciences Advisory Board, the River Hawk Venture Fund Advisory Board and the Commercial Ventures and Intellectual Property Advisory Board. He has also served as a judge in the annual DifferenceMaker Idea Challenge.

He and his wife, Gloria, have supported the LaTorre Family Scholarship Endowment Fund and the U.S. Bank Kennedy College of Sciences Dean’s Discretionary Fund. They have also supported the Alumni Events Scholarship Fund, the UMass Lowell Fund and the Dean Robert H. Tamarin Endowed Scholarship Fund.

LaTorre currently serves on the boards of Knoll Heights, Access Management and Fairleigh Dickinson’s Silberman Business School.

He received a textile chemistry degree from Lowell Technological Institute in 1959. For his support and lifetime achievements, LaTorre received an honorary degree from UMass Lowell in 2007 and was recognized in 2004 with the Francis Cabot Lowell Award for outstanding achievement in business. Additionally, in 2014, he received the Distinguished Alumni Award from the Independent University Alumni Association.

He and his wife reside in Holmes Beach, Fla., and Sparta, N.J.
Broadcast journalist Judy Woodruff is the co-anchor and managing editor of “The PBS NewsHour with Gwen Ifill and Judy Woodruff.” She has covered politics and other news for more than three decades at CNN, NBC and PBS.

For 12 years, Woodruff served as anchor and senior correspondent for CNN, where her duties included anchoring “Inside Politics.” At PBS, she was the chief Washington correspondent for The MacNeil/Lehrer NewsHour.” From 1984 to 1990, she also anchored PBS’ award-winning weekly series, “Frontline with Judy Woodruff.”

Woodruff has served as a visiting professor at Duke University’s Sanford School of Public Policy, as well as a visiting fellow at Harvard University’s Shorenstein Center on Media, Politics and Public Policy.

At NBC News, Woodruff was White House correspondent and later wrote the book, “This Is Judy Woodruff at the White House,” published in 1982.

Woodruff is a founding co-chair of the International Women’s Media Foundation, an organization dedicated to promoting women in communication industries worldwide. She serves on the boards of trustees of the Freedom Forum, the Newseum, The Duke Endowment and Urban Institute. She is a former member of the Knight Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics.

Woodruff is a graduate of Duke University, where she is a trustee emerita.

She is the recipient of the CINE Lifetime Achievement Award, the Edward R. Murrow Award for Lifetime Achievement in Broadcast Journalism/Television and the University of Southern California Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Television Political Journalism, among others.

She lives in Washington, D.C., with her husband, journalist Al Hunt. They are the parents of three children: Jeffrey, Benjamin and Lauren.

“I’ve been incredibly lucky to have a long career in journalism that has given me a front-row seat to some of the most important moments in modern American political life.”
Keith Lockhart is the second-longest-tenured conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra since its founding in 1885. During his tenure, Lockhart has expanded the orchestra’s programming, focused on national annual touring and participated in major media events.

Lockhart has conducted more than 1,700 Boston Pops concerts, most of which have taken place during the orchestra’s spring and holiday seasons in Boston’s historic Symphony Hall. Perhaps the most significant key to his success is his ability to connect passionately with audiences through his engaging programs, his commitment to speaking directly from the stage and his inherent understanding of the importance of the Pops.

With a renewed commitment to bringing the Boston Pops into the Boston community and to important civic events, Lockhart and the Pops have appeared at gubernatorial and mayoral inauguration ceremonies; the annual tree lighting in Boston’s Public Garden; sporting events including Red Sox, Patriots, Bruins and Celtics games; and the memorial service for the Boston Marathon bombing victims.

Lockhart has led eight albums on the RCA Victor/BMG Classics label, including two—“The Celtic Album” and “The Latin Album”—that earned Grammy nominations.

In addition to occupying the Julian and Eunice Cohen Boston Pops Conductor chair, Lockhart serves as principal conductor of the BBC Concert Orchestra in London and as artistic director of the Brevard Music Center summer institute and festival in North Carolina.

Born in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Lockhart began his musical studies with piano lessons at the age of 7. He holds degrees from Furman University and Carnegie Mellon University, and honorary doctorates from several American universities.

He lives in Brookline with his wife, Attorney Emily Lockhart.

“\textit{I am truly honored to be able to address UMass Lowell’s Class of 2016. These graduates will face unprecedented challenges, but also unimagined opportunities and I look forward to joining the UMass Lowell community in giving them a rousing send-off.}”
Universities annually award honorary degrees during commencement exercises to individuals who have made significant contributions to the business, cultural, educational, industrial, moral, social, intellectual or physical welfare of society. Besides saying something about an individual who is the recipient of an honorary degree, the bestowing of such an honor says a great deal about the awarding institution. It is a statement of what values the institution holds most dear and what actions and accomplishments it holds in highest regard. The candidates presented today for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters exemplify to the community some of those values and achievements with which the University of Massachusetts Lowell identifies.

JOHN F. KENNEDY '70

John Kennedy’s long record of philanthropy and commitment to UMass Lowell was recently recognized through the naming of the William J. and John F. Kennedy College of Sciences.

He and his older brother, Bill, who passed away in 1994, both graduated from programs in the College of Sciences. John Kennedy has parlayed his 1970 degree in mathematics from Lowell Tech, along with a master’s degree in accounting from UMass Amherst, into a successful career leading several firms.

Kennedy is the retired president and chief financial officer of Nova Ventures Corp. Nova Ventures is the management company for Nova Analytics and Nova Technologies, which he co-founded.

In addition to his support for the Kennedy College of Sciences, Kennedy has endowed multiple scholarships, underwritten the university’s Nanotechnology Research and Development Center in his brother’s memory and funded the Kennedy Family Basketball Court at the Tsongas Center.

He recently served as a member of the Chancellor Search Committee and is currently a member of the River Hawk Venture Fund Advisory Board. Additionally, he has served as chairman of the Kennedy College of Sciences Advisory Board, as a member of the former College of Management’s 50th Anniversary Campaign Committee, assistant coach to the golf team and as an adjunct professor in the Manning School of Business.

Kennedy received the university’s Distinguished Alumni Award in 2011. He resides in Naples, Fla., and Johns Island, S.C.

CHRIS COOPER

Chris Cooper is an American film actor, whose varied career has brought him opposite the likes of Meryl Streep, Matt Damon and The Muppets.

Recognized in 2003 with an Academy Award and a Golden Globe Award for Best Supporting Actor for his portrayal of John Laroche in “Adaptation,”

Cooper attended the University of Missouri School of Drama and started his professional career on the New York stage.

But the character actor is best known for his big- and small-screen works including the recent Hulu original mini-series created by J.J. Abrams and based on Stephen King’s novel, “11/22/63,” about an English teacher going back in time to prevent the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Cooper co-stars as Al Templeton, the eccentric owner of a local diner, which houses the time portal.

He is set to portray the American author J.D. Salinger in the film “Coming Through the Rye.” Cooper appeared in the Boston-based film “The Town” alongside Ben Affleck, Blake Lively, Jeremy Renner and Rebecca Hall, and teamed up with Affleck again in the upcoming “Live By Night,” based on the novel by Dennis Lehane, and filmed partially in the Merrimack Valley.

In 2014, Cooper was seen in the role of supervillain Norman Osborn in “The Amazing Spider-Man 2.” He also appeared in John Wells’ film adaptation of the hit Broadway play “August: Osage County,” co-starring opposite Meryl Streep, Julia Roberts and Ewan McGregor.

Cooper and his wife, actress and writer Marianne Leone Cooper, reside on the South Shore of Massachusetts.

COMMENCEMENT FACT: The tassel worn with the doctoral cap has three variations: black for any degree; an official color designated for the faculty in which the degree is granted; or, in the case of the doctoral cap, it may be gold.
The robes, colors, terminology and other aspects of today's ceremonies are modern versions of academic traditions started during the Middle Ages in Europe.
