UNOFFICIAL LISTING OF DEGREE RECIPIENTS

This listing of student degree recipients is unofficial. Final awarding of degrees is contingent upon students completing all degree requirements as verified by the academic dean.

Undergraduate students completing degree requirements during the 2016-2017 academic year who appeared in previous commencement programs are not listed again. University honors listed in this program reflect cumulative averages for the semester in which they were last computed. Since final undergraduate averages often differ from the last reported averages, official university honors may be different from those listed. Gold decals signifying official university honors will be placed on diplomas or mailed to graduates.

Dear Graduates:

Today we celebrate your hard work and dedication. You have studied and sacrificed to reach this moment. You have earned your degree. On behalf of the entire university community, I congratulate you on your accomplishments.

As we celebrate this important milestone together with your family and loved ones, the University of Massachusetts Lowell faculty, staff and administration wish you continued success. You have inspired us.

As our newest alumni, you join a unique community united in River Hawk spirit and bound by the shared experiences of a UMass Lowell education. I hope you will stay engaged with the university and continue to be part of its success.

A college diploma is an important achievement, but it’s not an end point. It heralds a new beginning. I look forward to hearing about the great achievements of the Class of 2017 in the years ahead.

With all good wishes,

Jacqueline F. Moloney ’75, ’92
Chancellor
History of the University

The earliest predecessor institutions of the University of Massachusetts Lowell—Lowell Normal School and Lowell Textile School—were established in the late 19th century to provide instruction in the theories and practical arts of teaching and the textile industry.

Lowell Normal School was chartered by the General Court of the Commonwealth on Jan. 6, 1894 as a teacher-training institution. The school provided “the most thorough knowledge of the branches of learning to be taught in the schools the best methods of teaching these branches and right mental training.” In 1932 it was made a four-year college and was granted the right to confer baccalaureate degrees.

The school became Lowell State College in 1960 and introduced non-teaching programs in the liberal arts. During the next decade and a half, the college continuously expanded its mission and curriculum offerings at both the graduate and undergraduate levels and was authorized to offer degree programs in education, the health professions, music, the liberal arts and sciences.

From the time of its origin in 1895, the Lowell Textile School provided educational programs of an applied and practical nature. “Science and art will be taught,” the enabling statute for the school announced, “for the purpose of improving any special trade or of introducing new branches of industry.” Control of the school was transferred to the state in 1918. Ten years later it was granted collegiate status, and in 1953 it was made the multipurpose Lowell Technological Institute.

In the 1960s the institute phased out its textile program, extended its degree authority to the doctoral level and expanded its curriculum offerings in engineering and technology, pure and applied sciences, business administration and industrial management.

The merger of Lowell State College and Lowell Technological Institute in 1975 created the University of Lowell. The move brought together two institutions of differing character and orientation, creating a comprehensive university whose strengths and resources were greater than those of the previous schools.

From its earliest days, the university has aggressively sought to become a major intellectual center and an indispensable economic force in the Commonwealth. To this end, the University of Lowell created doctoral programs in work environment, engineering, education and computer science and established campus centers for productivity enhancement, educational field studies and health promotion.

In 1991, the University of Lowell became one of five components of the University of Massachusetts. For 26 years, the University of Massachusetts Lowell has offered a wide array of liberal arts, science and professional programs.

New research centers and collaborations in nanomanufacturing, robotics, printed electronics, and terrorism and security studies, among others, provide transformative experiences for students and innovative research to the world.

The university offers more than 17,000 students bachelor’s, master’s and doctoral degrees in six colleges. Our students are more successful than ever thanks to accredited programs, a focus on hands-on learning, and personal attention from accomplished faculty and dedicated staff. Today more than 3,900 graduates will join a community of over 90,000 living alumni.

Commencement Fact: The Grand Marshal’s mace is a symbol of university authority. It bears the seal of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, from which authority the university derives its right to confer degrees.
COMMENCEMENT FACT: The nomenclature used by American universities to designate the three traditional levels of academic degrees (bachelor, master and doctor) originated during the Middle Ages.

CITATIONS OF RECOGNITION

CANDIDATES FOR COMMISSION UNITED STATES AIR FORCE ROTC

The University of Massachusetts Lowell Air Force ROTC detachment educates cadets with the professional, warrior and moral fortitude to succeed as officers for our nation. Cadets complete academic courses in the profession of arms, leadership and communication skills, and national security policy. Combined with weekly leadership laboratories, a vigorous physical fitness regimen and summer experiences, these cadets ultimately each receive a presidential-level commission as a second lieutenant and will serve in various fields, including: aviation, space, cyberspace, engineering, nursing, research and finance.

Currently under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Jesse Jaramillo, the university’s Air Force ROTC detachment will commission the following members of the Class of 2017 in a subsequent ceremony:

College of Fine Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences
Second Lieutenant Gackson Wheeler, Intelligence Officer
Second Lieutenant Charles Khoshabjian, Pilot

Kennedy College of Sciences
Second Lieutenant David Bui, Cyberspace Operations Officer

Francis College of Engineering
Second Lieutenant Micah Menendez-Aponette, Combat Systems Officer
Second Lieutenant Trong Ngo, Remotely Piloted Aircraft Pilot

CANDIDATES FOR COMMISSION UNITED STATES ARMY ROTC

The Army Reserve Officer Training Corps program is a diverse group of men and women with more than 20,000 cadets currently enrolled. ROTC produces approximately 70 percent of the second lieutenants who join the active Army, Army Reserve, and Army National Guard. More than 40 percent of current active duty army general officers were commissioned through ROTC.

The University of Massachusetts Lowell Army ROTC graduates will have completed both the basic and advance courses in basic military skills and fundamentals of leadership, advanced military tactics and decision making, as well as planning and team organization. The cadets are commissioned as second lieutenants in the United States Army and will enter either active duty, National Guard or the Reserves in diverse careers such as aviation, armor, infantry, engineer, signal, air defense artillery, field artillery, military police, finance, chaplain, medical services, chemical, military intelligence, ordinance and acquisition.

Currently under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Justin B. Putnam, the University of Massachusetts Lowell Army ROTC program will commission four second lieutenants from the Class of 2017 to the United States Army:

School of Criminology and Justice Studies
Second Lieutenant Justin Moran, Quartermaster, Massachusetts National Guard

College of Fine Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences
Second Lieutenant Alexander Wright, Ordnance

Kennedy College of Sciences
Second Lieutenant John Krauss, Engineer Corps, Massachusetts National Guard

Manning School of Business
Second Lieutenant Michael Santorelli, Signal Corps; Massachusetts National Guard

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION RECOGNITION

The Student Government Association annually nominates individuals for “Who’s Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.” Selection is made on the basis of extra-curricular contributions to the university. The following members of the Class of 2017 have been selected for this honor:

College of Fine Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences
Gerrit Boldt
Shantelle Castle
Rebecca Crivello
Diana Estrela
Hannah Judkins
Alison Lai
Shannon MacDonald
Lucky Somtochukwu Nnyamah
John Nyarko
Kellie O’Brien
Diana Santana
Selena Tran
Farinaz Valamanesh
the Class of 2017 have earned this award:

- Manning School of Business
  - Ashley Hillson

- Francis College of Engineering
  - Kristin Bartone
  - Zarif Farhana Mohd Aris

- College of Fine Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences
  - James Aung
  - Georgia Cowderoy

Zuckerberg College of Health Sciences

- Allison Dunbar

---

CHANCELLOR’S MEDAL FOR STUDENT SERVICE

Graduating students who have made outstanding contributions to the university may be nominated for the Chancellor’s Medal by members of the UMass Lowell community. The following members of the Class of 2017 have been nominated for this award:

- Francis College of Engineering
  - Michaela Fitzgerald

- College of Fine Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences
  - Jacqueline Cao
  - Marlon Pitter

- Zuckerberg College of Health Sciences
  - Shannon Arruda
  - Jacob Record

- Kennedy College of Sciences
  - Sabrina Pedersen

CHANCELLOR’S MEDAL FOR DIVERSITY & INCLUSION

This award recognizes the accomplishments of undergraduate and graduate students for significant achievements in advancing the university’s goals in the areas of diversity, inclusion and social justice through service, advocacy, community outreach initiatives and/or research at the University of Massachusetts Lowell.

The following members of the Class of 2017 have earned this award:

- College of Fine Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences
  - Jose Molina-Feliz
  - Diana Santana
  - Selena Tran

CHANCELLOR’S MEDAL FOR DISTINGUISHED ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT

The graduates with the highest cumulative average in each undergraduate college receive this award for their scholarly dedication. The requirement for the Chancellor’s award is a 3.60 cumulative average over 60 credits at the university. The following members of the Class of 2017 have earned this award:

- Manning School of Business
  - Matthew W. Tagan

- Francis College of Engineering
  - Jason Taylor Plumer
  - Joshua Kai Zubricki

- College of Fine Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences
  - Patricia Burriss

*Students with HC next to their name in the list of candidates for degrees have met these requirements and are graduates of the Honors College at UMass Lowell.

BACCALAUREATE DEGREE HONORS

The university awards baccalaureate degrees with three levels of distinction to graduating students who have exhibited exceptional scholastic records. To be eligible for university honors, each student must achieve a minimum grade-point average of at least 3.25 for all courses completed at the university and must have earned a minimum of 60 credits at the school.

Appropriate honors will be noted on diplomas following the determination of final baccalaureate averages.

University honors listed in this program reflect grade-point averages for the semester in which student averages were last reported. Since final baccalaureate averages often differ from the last reported averages, official university honors may differ from those listed on the following pages.
DEPARTMENT HONORS

In addition to university honors, departments may also award honors to their graduating students. Graduating students in Continuing Education can receive these honors from the college that has jurisdiction over their major. Faculty members in the student’s major or interdisciplinary committees may recommend their graduates for honors to recognize outstanding achievement in their field.

To qualify for such honors, graduates must complete a minimum of 24 credits in their major at the university and fulfill any honors requirements as specified by colleges, departments or interdisciplinary committees in their field. To receive honors, a student must have a 3.25 to 3.99 grade point average in all major courses taken at the university with no grade lower than a B. For high honors, students must have a 4.0 grade point average in all courses taken in their major at the university.

Distinguished Alumni Award

The University of Massachusetts Lowell Distinguished Alumni Award was established to acknowledge professional and public service contributions of university alumni. The Alumni Relations Council Board of Directors annually selects an individual who has made a significant contribution to a field of knowledge or who has provided exemplary service to the public.

EDWARD J. “NED” BARRETT ’58 (H)

Before his retirement in 2013, Edward J. “Ned” Barrett enjoyed a successful career in educational publishing, serving as a senior executive for a number of publishing companies, including Prentice Hall, Addison-Wesley and Pearson Education.

After earning his degree from State Teachers College at Lowell, Barrett began his career as a teacher and school administrator. In 1967, he parlayed his education background into a sales position with a textbook publisher and rose to various positions in senior management.

Barrett’s background in education has been an integral part of his life personally as well as professionally. When Barrett graduated in 1958, he had the rare opportunity of sharing the stage with his mother, Margaret, an alumna of Lowell Normal School who had returned to college for her bachelor’s degree. After she died, his father established the Margaret Holland Barrett Scholarship in her memory. Since his father’s death, Barrett has ensured that the scholarship continues to grow and provide financial assistance to education students, particularly returning students like Margaret.

Barrett is the chair of the College of Education Advisory Board and serves on the Our Legacy, Our Place Campaign Executive Committee.

He and his wife, Carole, are members of the university’s Circle of Honor in recognition of their generous support of UMass Lowell.

Barrett has served on the Chancellor’s External Advisory Board, and in 2000, he was the recipient of the Francis Cabot Lowell Award, honoring outstanding alumni achievement.

In addition to his undergraduate degree in education, Barrett earned an M.Ed. from Salem State and an M.B.A. from Suffolk University.

He and Carole reside in Naples, Florida. They have two children and five grandchildren.
Commencement Speakers and Honorary Degree Recipients

Steve Kornacki
MSNBC and “Today” Show Political Analyst

MSNBC and “Today” show political analyst Steve Kornacki has been a frequent commentator on the presidential campaign and its outcome. Kornacki—a native of nearby Groton who took classes at UMass Lowell—is the former politics editor for Salon, and his work has appeared in The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, The Boston Globe and other publications.

During the 2016 election cycle, Kornacki provided daily in-depth analysis of the presidential race and has continued his analysis since on MSNBC and “Today.” His coverage during the election included polls by UMass Lowell’s Center for Public Opinion of likely voters in New Hampshire and a national survey of millennials that found nearly a quarter would have rather seen Earth hit by a giant meteor than vote for Hillary Clinton or Donald Trump.

In December, Kornacki headlined an event on campus analyzing the presidential election and the outcome since. He is a graduate of Boston University.

Kornacki’s book, which focuses on the political history of the 1990s, is due out in 2017.

“I have deep feelings for this school and this area. It’s an honor to address graduates who will take values that were forged here into the world. Also, I’ll do my best not to talk too much about election maps.”
Freeman A. Hrabowski III, president of the University of Maryland, Baltimore County since 1992, is a consultant on science and math education. He was named by President Obama to chair the President’s Advisory Commission on Educational Excellence for African Americans. He also chaired the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine committee that produced the report “Expanding Underrepresented Minority Participation: America’s Science and Technology Talent at the Crossroads” in 2011.

Named one of the 100 Most Influential People in the World by Time magazine in 2012 and one of America’s Best Leaders by U.S. News & World Report in 2008, Hrabowski serves as a consultant to the National Science Foundation, the National Institutes of Health, the National Academies, and universities and school systems nationwide.

Hrabowski has authored numerous articles and co-authored two books, “Beating the Odds” and “Overcoming the Odds,” focusing on parenting and high-achieving African-American children in science. His most recent book, “Holding Fast to Dreams: Empowering Youth from the Civil Rights Crusade to STEM Achievement,” describes the experiences that played a central role in his development as an educator and leader.

A child-leader in the Civil Rights Movement, Hrabowski was prominently featured in Spike Lee’s 1997 documentary, “Four Little Girls,” on the racially motivated bombing in 1963 of Birmingham’s 16th Street Baptist Church.

Born in 1950 in Birmingham, Ala., Hrabowski graduated from Hampton Institute with highest honors in mathematics. He received a master’s degree in mathematics and a doctorate in higher education administration/statistics from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

“I’m really looking forward to joining the UMass Lowell community to celebrate the achievements of this graduating class. Commencement is such a special time for the graduates, their families and the entire university. It’s a great honor to be part of this day.”
Doctor of Humane Letters

Universities annually award honorary degrees during commencement exercises to individuals who have made significant contributions to the business, cultural, educational, industrial, moral, social, intellectual or physical welfare of society. Besides saying something about an individual who is the recipient of an honorary degree, the bestowing of such an honor says a great deal about the awarding institution. It is a statement of what values the institution holds most dear and what actions and accomplishments it holds in highest regard. The candidates presented today for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters exemplify to the community some of those values and achievements with which the University of Massachusetts Lowell identifies.

STEVEN CHU

Nobel laureate

Steven Chu is the William R. Kenan Jr. Professor of Physics and a professor of molecular and cellular physiology at the Stanford University School of Medicine. He has published approximately 260 papers in atomic and polymer physics, laser spectroscopy, biophysics, biology, biomedicine and batteries. He holds 11 patents.

Chu was U.S. secretary of energy from January 2009 through April 2013, the longest anyone has served in that role. As the first scientist to hold a cabinet position, he recruited outstanding scientists and engineers into the Department of Energy. He began several initiatives, including ARPA-E (Advanced Research Projects Agency—Energy), the Energy Innovation Agency and the U.S.-China Clean Energy Research Centers (CERC), and was tasked by President Obama to assist BP in stopping the Deepwater Horizon oil leak.

Prior to his cabinet post, he was director of the Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory and a professor of physics and molecular and cell biology at the University of California, Berkeley.

Chu has won numerous awards, including the 1997 Nobel Prize in Physics for his contributions to laser cooling and atom trapping. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the American Philosophical Society, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the Academia Sinica and is a foreign member of the Royal Society, the Royal Academy of Engineering, the Chinese Academy of Sciences and the Korean Academy of Sciences and Technology.

Chu received his honorary degree in November 2016 while he was on campus delivering the annual Tripathy Memorial Lecture.

FRANCIS M. “FRANK” SPINOLA ’66

Spinola grew up in a working-class family in Pittsburgh and showed an early promise for science. He graduated from Lowell Technical Institute in 1966 with a B.S. in chemical engineering and joined Koppers as a plant engineer. Over the next two decades, he rose to become vice president and general manager, while also earning an M.B.A. from the University of Chicago.

When Koppers was acquired by another firm in 1988, Spinola successfully led a leveraged buyout of the specialty chemicals division, naming the new company INDSPEC Chemical Corp. INDSPEC produced specialty resins for the tire and adhesives markets. Under Spinola’s leadership, INDSPEC’s value rose by 4,000 percent in 11 years.

In 1996, he sold INDSPEC to Occidental Petroleum and served as an executive vice president until his retirement in 1999.

Spinola is also a longtime civic leader and philanthropist. In addition to UMass Lowell, he has worked closely with Big Brothers Big Sisters and with the McGowan Institute, which researches regenerative medicines and artificial organs.
MARY JO SPINOLA ’66

Mary Jo (Roberto) Spinola’s ties to UMass Lowell began at birth. She was born at Lowell’s St. Joseph’s Hospital, where University Crossing now stands, and she grew up just a few blocks away from Lowell State Teachers College.

She knew from an early age that she wanted to be a teacher, and after graduating from Lowell High School in 1962, she enrolled at Lowell State to study elementary education. During her senior year, she met her future husband, Frank, when he rented an apartment in her family’s Lower Highlands home. Later this year, the Spinolas will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

After graduating in 1966, she taught elementary school for several years, retiring from the classroom when the Spinolas’ children, Alex and Andrea, were born.

Saying that it was important to them to give back to an institution that contributed to their own happiness, the Spinolas have become major benefactors of UMass Lowell. They have endowed a scholarship for engineering and education students, underwritten the gallery renovation at historic Allen House and created a fund that sponsors the annual DifferenceMaker Idea Challenge competition.

We congratulate the 110 Doctoral, 1,032 Master’s and 2,802 Baccalaureate recipients with representation from 44 states and 87 countries.
