Massachusetts State Energy Policy

Rachel Evans

April 5, 2018
11 AM to 12 PM
Olney Hall 212

Rachel Graham Evans is Deputy General Counsel at the MA Department of Energy Resources, where she promotes energy efficiency, system reliability, and renewable energy sources, and represents these interests before federal and state administrative agencies. Rachel is also the Massachusetts designee to implement the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative, the nation’s first carbon cap and trade program. The comments presented are her own personal view, and she is not speaking on behalf of her agency or the Commonwealth.