All data by party shown below are by self-described party identification:

- Unleaned reflects how respondents initially answered the question, "Regardless of how you are REGISTERED to vote, in politics today, do you CONSIDER yourself a [RANDOMIZE: Democrat, Republican, independent] or something else?"
- Leaned combines those who initially said Democrat or Republican with the responses of independents to the follow-up question "As of today do you lean more to [RANDOMIZE: the Democratic Party (or) the Republican Party]?"
- On all questions asked of half the sample (Form A or Form B), data are not shown for unleaned Republicans because the subgroup is too small for statistical reliability

⁴ September 22-23, question read: “Are you registered to vote in Massachusetts as a Democrat, a Republican, affiliated with some other political party, or as “unenrolled” with any party?” September 24-September 25, question read: “Are you registered to vote in Massachusetts as a Democrat, a Republican, or as “unenrolled” with any party? (“Some other party” volunteered). September 26-September 28, question read as above.

⁵ This category includes respondents who answered “other party” to this question but were not probed further to verify that status. Analysis suggests that most of these respondents misreported their registration status and are, in fact, unenrolled. The question wording/administration was modified for interviewing done September 26-28 so that only those who actually named a third party were counted as “other party.”

⁶ September 22-25: asked of unenrolled only

Q.12/Q.13 Are you registered to vote in Massachusetts as a Democrat, a Republican or are you “unenrolled,” that is, haven’t declared an affiliation with any party? / Do you think you may vote in the Democratic state primary for U.S. Senate, scheduled to be held next September, or is there no chance you’d vote in a Democratic primary?
