

Scientific evidence for work stress association with cardiovascular and other chronic diseases

Sustained exposure to job stressors contributes to the development of cardiovascular disease and other chronic diseases through multiple mechanisms, direct and indirect, as outlined in the figure below.

